Complimentary Musicals.

The beautiful musicals given Thursday afternoon of last week by Mrs. George A. Wright, complimentary to Miss Una Dell Berry of Lafayette, Ind., and Miss Sammie Blake of Mexia, Texas, was one of the loveliest affairs ever given in Palestine. Miss Berry is the sweet singer of the recent Christmas church revival services; Miss Blake, daughter of Mrs. Blake, who lived in Palestine during her girlhood, and who was a favorite with all. Her daughter now claims those sweet memories, and is a welcome guest in Palestine. Mrs. Wright's beautiful home was never more attractive than on this occasion. A perfect flower garden of roses and ferns was presented in the elaborate decorations. The long parlor, or salon, was arranged in concert style, with chairs; the piano in an alcove. On arriving Miss Mary Wright, the daughter of the home, received the guests in the hall. Mrs. Wright stood in the parlor with her honorees, greeting and introducing every one to them. Mrs. Wright wore a beautiful white lingerie gown; Miss Berry wore a gown of pink crepe de meteor, in white passementries, demitrain; Miss Blake was gown in an exquisite white net over yellow silk. The trio formed a group of lovely women. On arriving each guest was served punch by Mesdames Tucker Royall and E. B. Parsons, from a pretty flowered alcove. Mesdames Dora Douglass and Newell Kane received the guests, escorting them to seats. The pretty programs were given by Miss Mary Wright and Mrs. Kane after all had arrived. Mrs. O. W. Trice was pianist. The following program was rendered, giving delight to all. Too much praise cannot be given each number:

Instrumental, "Fantaisie Brillante," Rosselen—Mrs. A. Durr.
Solo: (a) "Lullaby," from Jocelyn Godard; (b) "Roses Bring Dreams of You," Ingram—Mrs. Wilson.
Solo: (a) "A Gypsy Maiden I," Parker; (b) "Three Green Bonnets," Hardelet; (c) "Summer Rain," Wilby—Miss Berry.
Violin Solo, "Because," from Jocelyn Godard—Mrs. Flynn.
Solo, "How Long Will Thou Forget Me, Lord," Neitzke—Miss Berry.
Piano Solo, "Prelude," Rachmaninoff; Op. No. 3, Fuga Boch—Mrs. Flynn.
Vocal Duet, "Oh, That We Two Were Maying," Nevin—Mesdames Grigsby and E. W. Link.
Solo: (a) "When Love Is Gone," Wiley; (b) "Under the Rose," Fish; (c) "Boat Song," Ware—Miss Berry.
After the program a social hour was held and delicious cake and brick team served.

Mrs. Wright was assisted by Mrs. Mattie McMeans and Mrs. Louis Durr in entertaining.
Six O'Clock Dinner.
Mrs. F. J. Matthews entertained on Thursday of last week with an elegant colonial dinner at 6 o'clock p. m., in honor of Mrs. Johnnie Link Mouzey of San Antonio, Mrs. Mouzey's mother, Mrs. Warren, of Dallas, and Mrs. Richard Hoffman of Manistee, Mich. The dining room was fragrant in sweet peas. The center piece was an elegant cut glass bowl of all kinds of sweet peas. The dinner was exquisitely served. Covers were laid for the following: Mr. P. W. Ezell, host; Mrs. P. W. Ezell, hostess; Mesdames Mouzey, Warren and Hoffman, honorees; Mesdames J. R. Ritzer, J. E. Copeland, Miss Eula Ezell, Mrs. Jas. Kilgore, Mrs. P. A. Kolstad, Mrs. P. H. Hughes and Miss Eva Crozier.

Complimentary Luncheon.

Mrs. R. C. Sewell gave a pretty luncheon at 1 o'clock p. m. on Wednesday of last week in honor of Mrs. Harry Brown of Fort Worth. The library and dining room were sweet in sweet peas of all colors; these formed the beautiful center piece. Mrs. Sewell was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. B. H. Gardner. The following was the personnel of the happy party: The hostess, her mother and honoree, Mesdames Geo. W. Burkitt, Jr., C. J. Crane, Ben Jackson, Henry Davenport, R. H. McLeod, Lev. Frederick, Jas. Smulless, Webb Wright, George Price, Webster McEvoy, Hampson Gary of Tyler.

Ten O'Clock Luncheon.

On last Saturday Miss Mary Martin gave an elegant luncheon at 10 o'clock a. m. The following young girls, among flowers and pretty things, enjoyed the happy occasion: The hostess, Mesdames Mary Bridgewater, Mary Windsor, Lucile Cossette, Lucile Campbell, Lois Grigsby, Vivian Watson, Essie Grant, Jennie May Dick and Miss Bently. High five was also enjoyed during the morning.

Complimentary.

Mrs. P. A. Kolstad entertained Friday afternoon complimentary to Mrs. Irby of Buffalo, N. Y. The parlors were pretty in a profusion of flowers, all kinds being used. Seven tables were arranged for bridge and rump. After the games were over covers were laid and an elegant luncheon served.

Spring Park Pleasures.

The following formed a happy party at Spring Park last Friday afternoon where high five and dancing were enjoyed, ending in an elegant luncheon: Mesdames Hazel, Louella and Mary Cook, Lois Grigsby, Marie Price, Maude O'Flynn, Mabel Claire Watson, Fay Williams, Jewel Dubose, Mason Haynes, Mary Head, Orlene Evans; chaperon, Mrs. Cad Williams.

Juniors Compliment the Seniors.

Saturday afternoon the Seniors of the High School responded to dainty invitations sent by the Juniors, meeting them at the study hall, where in a body they attended the matinee, where seats were reserved for all in a body. After the matinee another treat awaited them at the Morgan & Davis parlors. Two long tables were arranged; green and white, the colors of the Seniors, were used in the decorations. The place cards were tied in green and white ribbons, and bore the profile of an American girl. An elegant repast was served, carrying out the colors. After dinner mints were of green and white also. This was a beautiful affair, and no doubt but the beginning of many others for our students.

The following compose the class of Seniors of 1910:

Blossom Swift, Jennie May Dick, Ida Landau, Mary Bridgewater, Leila Broyles, Nell Morris, Mabel Wilkey, Letrude McIntyre, Arnold Halporn, Edwin Schwarz, Mary Martin, Mary Wright, Essie Grant, Ethel Kistler, Mary Windsor, Lorine Scott, Maggie Lyne, Mary Eason, Mackie Taylor, Virgil Ballew, Isadore Davidson, Hayden Hodges, Fannie Marsh, Lenore Byrns, Stella Ryan.

Off For a Fishing Trip.

The following party left yesterday morning for a few days' outing to Green Bluff, to fish and hunt: Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Newton of Hubbard City, Misses Mary, Hazel and Louella Cook, Hon. J. J. Strickland and others.

Married.

At the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. L. V. Harper, on North Sycamore street, Palestine, Texas, on Tuesday, May 10th, 1910, at 10:30 o'clock p. m., Mr. Frederick Wm. Duane and Miss Addie Mae Harper were united in marriage, Rev. Ellis Smith of Houston officiating. Only the relatives and a few intimate friends were present to witness this happy union. The bride came in on the arm of the bridegroom, and was gown in a handsome street costume of champagne tussah silk, hat and accessories to match. The parlors were beautifully decorated with sweet peas, and ferns, and made a fitting place for wedding joys. After congratulations the happy couple were driven to the depot, and left for Chicago and St. Louis on a honeymoon trip.

Birthday Joys.

Miss Mary Ritzer was honoree on Saturday of a beautiful May picnic, the occasion given by her mamma celebrating her fourteenth birthday, falling on Thursday before. Mesdames Ritzer and Copeland and Miss Eula Ezell were chaperons of the day. The spot chosen for the picnic was Howard's grove and creek. An elegant dinner was served and beautiful home soon passed, bringing the shades of night. Miss Mary was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, but the one most pleasing is the handsome brown Scotland Shelland saddle pony given her by her papa.

The following was the happy picnic party:

Phonsie Campbell, Johnnie Link, Hypatia Link, Eloise Hodges, Eloise Williams, Natalie Dobbs, Camilla Head, Eleanor Watson, Eleanor Houseman, Marguerite Dellis, Helen Maier, Gladys Jameson, Drusilla Matthews, Gladys DuPuy, Mary Lee Copeland, Phyllis Ash, Loraine Pearlstone, Lillian Price, Ellen Martin, Geraldine Wells, May Matthews, Ruth Eppner, Grace Yarbrough, Phillip Ezell, Malone Ezell.

Approaching Wedding.

Yesterday afternoon the Junior Aid Society met with Miss Lila Cutter, on North Sycamore street. After the business hour, all were invited to remain for a social hour, when the announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Lila to Mr. B. Berryman was made by her mother, Mrs. O. C. Cutter, the happy event to take place Wednesday, June 1st, 1910. This was a happy surprise to some. A delicious luncheon was served, interspersed with sweet words and loving thoughts. Miss Cutter is a very popular young lady, beloved by all. Mr. Berryman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Berryman. The attachment of years is now complete, and together they seek that home happiness in Alabama.

Lilliputian Wedding.

The little wedding presented last night at the city hall by Mrs. Ben Jackson was a panorama of everything beautiful, interesting and cute. Too much praise and credit cannot be given Mrs. Jackson for this lovely presentation. Mesdames Douthit, Saunders, Henry Wright, Webb Wright, A. G. Greenwood and Hewitt and Miss Allee Patrick deserve special mention for their untiring assistance in practicing the little ones. The first scene presented the stage all in wedding bells, with pink and white decorations, the wedding colors. The little ushers conducted the little guests to their seats with ease and dignity. The little men were all in full dress suits, the little ladies in evening toilettes. Little Carrie Nell Marsh gave the wedding song, "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Webb Wright gave the wedding march, and the bridal train followed, first the little preacher in clergyman's suit, next the groom, Thomas Benton Greenwood, Jr., on the arm of his best man, Willard Markle. Never did groom step more proudly; together they awaited the bride's coming. The bridesmaids followed, all in lingerie gowns, en train, carrying arm bouquets of bridesmaid roses; the groomsmen entered from the left, all in dress suits. The little ribbon bearers were dressed as children, also the flower girls. The bride came in on the arm of her father, Eugene Dobbs. She was the dearest little bride ever seen in Palestine, in white satin gown, long train, veil and lilies of the valley, a shower bouquet of white carnations. She wore an elegant brooch, the gift of the groom. The ring ceremony was used, and the little preacher gave a beautiful ceremony. The marching out was grand. The second scene presented the wedding reception. The bride and groom, seated in the arch 'neath the wedding bells, was a picture that will never be forgotten. The bridal kiss was the sweetest thing out, for neither Ben or Katherine have passed their babyhood. Little Jane Jackson gave a pretty song, and Sarah Fowler gave a reading which contributed largely to the joys of the reception. The cutting of the cake was interesting. The groom escorted his bride to the table, and in great dignity they cut, followed by all the bridal party. Miss Helen Maier gave a beautiful piano solo during the reception, and also had charge of the bridal table. The whole scene was so beautiful that words cannot express it, but Mrs. Jackson has been asked to give it on Saturday afternoon as a benefit for the Library, and those who did not see it will have the opportunity. The house was packed and a nice sum realized, which is a benefit by Mrs. Jackson for the Home Missionary Society, being her donation to the work.
